SHIPPING NOTES.

Stmr Lehua brought 621 bags sugar. The S S Alameda sailed at noon today for San Francisco. She took 27,001 bags of sugar; 9,737 from Irwin & Co., 5,002 from Davies & Co., 4,775 from Castle & Cooke, 3,336 from Brewer & Co., 2,391 from Schaefer & Co., 1,585 from Widemann, 675 from Phillips & Co. She also took 3,544 bags of rice, 1,270 bunches of bananas, 892 dry hides, 18 bales of goat skins, 8 bales of sheep skins, 223 bales of green hides, 15 cases of pineapples, 8 pkgs of leaves, 12 pkgs of express matter, 6 cases of sponges, 14 pkgs of Hawaiian produce, and 1 bag of gold and silver coin, (gold $900, silver $860). Total domestic value produce $186,901.48.

The stmr Jas I Dowsett got stuck on the mud last night at Kaunakakai, Molokai. She was close to the buoy there, and when backing to get out of the stmr Mokoli's way she became fast. The Mokoli and Lehua offered assistance that was rejected, as the captain of the Dowsett knew that the vessel would float at high tide. She got off this morning at about 7:45 o'clock and made the distance from Kaunakakai to Honolulu in 5 hours and 15 minutes. She brought 10 head of cattle and 140 sheep. Mr Jas I Dowsett and the Doctor of the Alameda were passengers by her.

Stmr W G Hall and C R Bishop sailed on Monday at 4 o'clock.

ALOHA NUI.

Chief Engineer Nott left by the Alameda to-day, accompanied by his wife. Last evening the bell tower was beautifully illuminated in honor of the chief, who is so highly respected by his associates. The flags at the various engine houses were flying all the morning until the departure of the steamer. Quite a number of the fire department were down at the steamer to say good-bye. Mr. and Mrs. Nott will return some time in November.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

The sum of $25 was stolen from the residence of Mr. E. G. Schuman, Kapiolani Park, yesterday. It belonged to his brother Gustav, who had saved it up and had placed it in a drawer, wrapped up in paper. The thief went about his business in a very systematic way, and was evidently well posted about the inside of the house. He removed the money from the paper and then placed a very small tin box in its place. There is a very strong suspicion that the thief is a sickly-looking man whom Mr. Schuman gave a job for a few days to help him along.

ONLY STUCK IN THE MUD.

Soon after the arrival of the Lehua this morning, a report got all round town that the steamer James I. Dowsett was ashore on Molokai. It appears that at Kaunakakai, at high tide, the vessel gets as near in as she possibly can to land cattle. There is a mud flat which runs out some distance, and the heel of the vessel got on to it. The captain did not require any assistance and was only waiting for this morning's high tide, when she got off and proceeded for this port. The doctor of the Alameda was a passenger by the Dowsett, he having gone to make a visit to the leper settlement. A few minutes after ten o'clock this morning the vessel was telephoned as being off Diamond Head, and a little later she was alongside her wharf, having sustained no damage.

AN ACCIDENT.

About half-past ten o'clock this morning, while the crew of the C. R. Bishop were unloading sugar, the cargo pennant broke and the block fell and struck a native named Pipi on the side, breaking two of his ribs. Mr. Wingate, who has charge of the Inter-Island Co.'s office on the wharf, immediately jumped in his break and went after a doctor. He had not gone far before he met Dr. Fitch, who at once went down to the steamer and attended to the man's injuries. He made him comfortable and ordered his immediate removal to the Queen's Hospital. A stretcher was procured and he was carried to that institution. He did not want to go there, but had to give way.

SURPRISE PARTY AT KAHULUI.

On Thursday, 30th July, quite a number of friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Everett, assembled together at their house and gave them a surprise party. When the host and hostess had recovered from the sudden shock, they, in their usual cordial manner, welcomed their guests and made them feel at home at once. While all were conversing on the topics of the day, the music was heard and all retired to the spacious lanai, to tip the light fantastic toe. A little summer shower poured on us, while dancing, which drove us into the parlor where games and songs were participated in. The rain soon ceased and dancing was again resumed and kept up till the wee hours, when what proved a very pleasant and sociable gathering was brought to a close and the company wended their way to their respective homes.

RAILWAY AGENCY.

Mr. J. E. Wiseman, the General Business Agent, was appointed about a year ago the special agent here for the Great Burlington Railroad route in America. Recently Mr. Thos. D. McKay, the General Passenger Agent for this well-known road in San Francisco, has forwarded to Mr. Wiseman a large, new and elegant assortment of Lithos and Guide Books with maps, &c., interspersed with beautiful scenes along the route going east, giving to the tourist and traveller a full idea of the appointments connected with the Great Burlington Route. Mr. Wiseman has been of great service to the company in serving them at this end, as the recommendations of patrons travelling by this route will show by their names registered in the new Guide Books. Every steamer from here finds Mr. Wiseman busy in arranging for passengers going by this route, and he predicts that before the year is out an office will be established here in his spacious and beautiful offices, where tickets may be sold direct to all parts of the United States. A new sign of the Great Burlington will shortly make its appearance in front of Mr. Wiseman's office. For information to those contemplating an eastern trip Mr. Wiseman would advise calling on him.

LUCKY LADS.

Mr. A. G. Ellis and Mr. Will Adams have, it is pleasing to hear, struck a pretty good bonanza in Oregon. In a letter to Mr. A. J. Cartwright, Jr., dated Portland, July 13th, Mr. Ellis says:—"Mr. Adams and myself have just come in from Baker County, S. E. Oregon, having prospected in the vicinity of Baker City with little, and in the vicinity of Durkee with very gratifying success. We have a claim near Durkee Station on the O. R. & N., near the Gold Ridge mine, owned by Portland capitalists. The Gold Ridge is a paying property and considered one of the best properties in Oregon to-day. The district is very rich, and mines can be worked every day in the year. The ore runs rich in sulphurets, which carry nearly all the gold. The miners here have never saved the sulphurets, and we think they can all be saved with proper concentrators. The Gold Ridge Company have made arrangements to put in concentrators, and parties here are paying Mr. Adams' expenses to San Francisco and return in connection with the shipment and purchase of this machinery. I shall go down on the steamer with Adams to-night, as only after having demonstrated what the concentrators will do with ores in our district can we determine the value of our mine. We will return immediately from San Francisco, after seeing what terms we can make for machinery, and if the concentrators do the work we will put on a good force of miners at once. Not sufficient water to work claims on Eagle Creek, Cœur d'Alene, this season."

In a letter to Mr. Bruce Cartwright, Mr. Ellis says the Eastern Oregon mines are attracting far more attention and yielding more real gold coin than any other mining district he knows of. Also, that if they have a bonanza, he will likely be in Honolulu about November 22nd.

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

THE YOSEMITE RINK MASQUERADE.—A GRAND SPECTACULAR DISPLAY.—THREE SCORE MASKERS AND EIGHT HUNDRED SPECTATORS.—LIST OF CHARACTERS.

Immediately upon the doors being opened last evening, people began pouring into the Yosemite Skating Rink for the announced masquerade. By eight o'clock, the hour given for the grand march, the seats were filled and additional chairs had to be brought in. To prepare for the occasion Manager Wall had the makai end of the rink taken out, and a roofed gallery constructed looking out upon the floor. Several rows of seats were also placed on each side of the rink. Altogether seating accommodation was provided for seven hundred people, yet when the ball opened scores were compelled to stand in the space by the doors. There were, at the lowest estimate, eight hundred spectators present, comprising the best society people, as the word goes, and members of the executive, legislature, judiciary, learned professions, and commercial and industrial guilds. It was, moreover, a cosmopolitan assemblage, people of the much-varied nationalities dwelling here mingling together by companies and individuals in pleasant heterogeneity.

A detachment of the Royal Hawaiian Band struck up lively music, and, after a few minutes delay, the curtain dividing off the dressing rooms was raised, and there entered a splendid procession of forty or fifty skaters in costume. The little couple personating George and Martha Washington headed the grand march, and as the varied column of artistic, majestic, comic and grotesque characters passed in review, murmurs of delight and then a burst of applause broke from the audience. The concentric evolutions of the procession, with which the grand march ended, were executed in remarkably fine style. Many of the costumes commanded attention at once for their ingenuity and originality. In addition to those that won the prizes, mentioned below, there were the Ti Tree, a figure completely draped in ti leaves; Uncle Sam and his Mother, a combination presenting the illusion of a matron carrying a silk-tiled, American-looking chap in a clothes basket; the Hawaiian Flag, a dress effectively showing the crosses and the stripes of the national flag; the dainty little figure of the Moorish Chief; Germania, enrobed in the German colors; the Indian chief, the Indian, Buffalo Bill and the Cowboy, all strongly redolent of the American plains; the Italian Brigand, for richness of costume, and the Duc de Richelieu and Louis XIV., for fine historical representation, besides many pretty and elaborate costumes among the ladies. Of the prize-winners Marks the Lawyer was "immense," both for his fine skating and funny acting, and the Blind Man was equally good in his role.

The judges were Mrs. Dr. Tucker, Mrs. H. Johnson, Mrs. A. M. Sass, and Messrs. H. Schmidt, Chas. Hustace and R. W. Laine. Their awards were as follows:—

Most elegant costumes—George and Martha Washington.
Most comic—Marks the Lawyer.
Most original—Egg Shells.
Best sustained—Blind Man.

The following is a list of the masqueraders, excepting a few who did not appear in character and one or two who withheld their names. There were sixty skaters all told when all had arrived in the arena:—

LADIES.
Mrs. Blanchard, School Girl.
Mrs. E. A. Williams, Night.
Mrs. C. W. King, Yosemite.
Mrs. Dr. Fitch, Astronomy.
Miss Maggie Lishman, Hawaiian Flag.

Miss Wall, Winter Queen.
Miss Maria Gomez, Moorish Chief.
Miss Augusta Berger, Germania.
Miss Bolster, Housekeeper.
Miss May Baldwin, Ballet Dancer.
Miss May, Crazy Quilt.
Miss Kaid Lishman, Egg Shells.
Miss Alice Wall, Martha Washington.
Miss Alice Ward, School Girl.
Mrs. John A. Reichert, Spanish Dress.
Miss Maggie Morgan, Rose Tress.
Miss Daisy Williams, Greek Maiden.

GENTLEMEN.
D. Bent, Fancy.
Geo. Huddy, Blind Man.
Eugene Darling, Cowboy.
J. B. Gibson, Prince.

J. G. Rothwell, Jack of Hearts.
Alfred Wall, Puss-in-boots.
Robert Peterson, Martha Washington.
C. S. Hall, Crazy Quilt.
Ed. Tucker, Buffalo Bill.
W. C. King, Domino.
J. W. McGuire, Turkish Pasha.
J. A. Gonsalves, Blacksmith and Watchmaker.
Ormond Wall, George Washington.
Willie Burns, Irish Dude.
James Mahoney, Indian.
James Ward, King Louis XIV.
W. A. Wall, Uncle Sam and his Mother.

Thos. Nott and Frank Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Green from Blackville.
W. L. Arsen, Indian Chief.
S. A. Monsarrat, Spanish Grandee.
E. A. Williams, Alessandro Massaroni, the Italian Brigand.
Anthony Wall, Page.
Frank Darling, Duc de Richelieu.
James Love, Marks the Lawyer.
W. Lucas, Brewer.
W. Bolster, Dude.
John Lishman, Ti Tree.
W. Robinson, Laundryman.
Alex. Robertson, Buffoon.

After unmasking there was a dance, in which a large number participated, and which many spectators remained to see.

It would be unpardonable to omit mention of the decorations of the rink for the occasion. They were ample and tasteful. Besides the standing adornments of pictures, including Mr. Stratemeyer's large view of the Volcano, the walls were daintily relieved with sprigs of ferns and clusters of leaves. Elaborate festoons were strung in different directions, American and Hawaiian flags drooped from staffs at regular distances throughout the truss work supporting the double roof, and spaces at the ends of the rink were utilized to advantage with verdant beauty. A row of porcelain shaded lamps, with colored lamps at intervals, illuminated the whole front of the gallery, and over the skating arena there was an abundance of bright lamps, shedding a cheerful radiance over the gorgeous scenes of the evening.

Mr. Wall is to be congratulated upon the excellent arrangements so well carried out and crowned with so much success.

ENGLISH AND GERMAN BEER DRINKING.

Despite the heroic efforts of the German students, England still retains her reputation as the greatest beer-drinking country of the world. Some recently compiled statistics show that, while England's 27,000 breweries produce 990,000,000 gallons of beer in a year, the Germans, with 2,000 fewer breweries, make 900,000,000 gallons.

SIGNS OF AFFECTION.

As a sign of affection, kissing was unknown to the Australians, the New Zealanders, the Papuans, the Esquimaux and other races. The Polynesians and the Malays always sit down when speaking to a superior. The inhabitants of Mallicolo, an island in the Pacific Ocean, show their admiration by hissing; the Esquimaux pull a person's nose as a compliment; a Chinaman puts on his hat where we should take it off, and among the same curious people a coffin is considered as a neat and appropriate present for an aged person, especially if the aged person is in bad health.

HOW WE JUDGE A NOVEL.

Nearly all the stories printed today have in them an attempt at something beyond the mere telling of a tale with trappings of scenery and puppets to bear out the illusion. But we do not examine this scenery to know if it is real, nor stick pins in these puppets to learn if they are merely stuffed dolls to play upon our fancy. In this we do ourselves an injustice, both losing the fine flavor of a good novel and failing to penetrate the tinsel and stage effects of a poor one, in much the same way as a befuddled drinker swallows Ve. Cliquot and champagne cider with the same approval. Then, too, in order to catch a page or two of "conversation" or "action" that is valued only as it carries forward the plot, we are prone to run hastily over descriptive writing that paints a vivid bit of landscape with cameo fidelity and beauty. Or a chapter filled with life and color is voted dreary and slow because only indirectly it aids in tangling the threads of the romance. It is the amount of "thrill" in the concluding chapters and the agreement in doctrine and sentiment of the writer with the reader's personal beliefs and tastes that settles the novel as good, or bad indifferent.—The Current.

A bright Chicago youth got an autograph album filled with signatures, but as they lacked neatness and uniformity he bought a new book and copied all the names into it. Now he is happy.

It is claimed that the highest faculty of language is to conceal thought. It may be, but when a man falls over a wheelbarrow, in the dark, it seems to lose its grip somewhat in that particular.—[Chicago Leader.]
